The Bible is Misunderstood When We Don't Respect Its Authority

One attitude that prevents sincere, Bible-believing people from agreeing upon what the Bible says is a lack of respect for the authority the Bible claims for itself. When people dare discuss religion, so often, each sentence begins with "I believe" instead of "the Bible says." Long-held opinions and beliefs take on the weight of scripture.

Yet Jesus said, "He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day" (John 12:48). The Bible will be opened in the judgment! Revelation 20:12 teaches that books (the Bible) will be opened, and our lives will be compared with that standard. Revelation 22:18,19 teaches that to add to God's word is to add to oneself the curses it contains, and to take away from it is to take away from oneself the blessings it describes. Matthew 7:21-23 is a warning from Christ to those who, in all sincerity or hypocrisy, substitute their own will for God's will. Although these believers thought they had been performing miracles in Jesus' name, He told them in judgment, "I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity."

The Bible must be our final authority. What I think, feel, or believe matters little. What God has said matters absolutely.
